

Is herd immunity real?

Yes.

Herd immunity, or community immunity, is when a large part of the community has immunity to a contagious disease, so community members who can't be vaccinated are protected. The safest way to achieve this is through vaccines.

Learn more on this topic!

View the booklet

